Passage I

(4 points)

If a person uses two languages in everyday life, he or she is said to be bilingual. Only a few people whom we would call bilingual can speak, read, or write both languages equally well. We call those who can do this "balanced bilinguals". But most bilinguals have a preferred language, which they use most of the time, and then a second language, the level and use of which will vary considerably from one person to another. Children raised bilingually from a very early age are most likely to have an equal command of both.

There are bilingual communities in many parts of the world. Members of these communities use two (or more) languages as a matter of course. South Africa, Belgium, Wales, Ireland, and Canada are some examples of countries where such communities exist. (This does not mean that everyone living in these countries is bilingual.) Bilingualism also occurs in other areas of the world where immigrant groups have settled but have remained not fully absorbed into the society around them. They keep up many of their own customs and continue to speak their own language at home. The following examples are taken from a long list: Chinese and Italians in Australia; Turkish migrant workers in Germany; Asians in Great Britain; and Spanish speakers in the United States. In many cases, the bilinguals are not themselves immigrants, but people whose parents , or even grandparents, moved to the country in question and have continued to speak to their children in their own mother tongue.

1. According to the passage, a balanced bilingual is a person who
 - 1) can use two languages in everyday life
 - 2) has an equal command of two languages at the same time
 - 3) can use a second language in a context where another language is spoken
 - 4) has been raised bilingually and can read and write only his own language in two countries
2. According to the reading, children who were bilingual from a very early age
 - 1) are more likely to be dominant in one language
 - 2) have an equal command of both cultures
 - 3) can write both languages equally correct
 - 4) most probably know both languages equally

3. Which statement about the passage is NOT true?

- 1) South Africa, Belgium and Canada are some examples of bilingual countries.
- 2) Members of bilingual communities use two different languages as a matter of course.
- 3) There are bilingual communities all over the world.
- 4) Not everyone living in bilingual countries is bilingual.

4. Migrants speak their native language in order to

- 1) preserve their customs
- 2) help their children do better at school
- 3) communicate more easily with their children
- 4) be absorbed in a foreign country more easily

Passage 2

(4 points)

There were two famous painters in Bengal. One was called Arbindo, and the other, Naresh. As a trial of skill, these two artists painted two pictures. The one which Arbindo painted, showed a bunch of grapes and was so true to life that birds actually flew to it and pecked at it. Arbindo naturally felt proud that his painting had deceived birds and was quite sure that his rival would never be able to defeat him. Arbindo then asked Naresh to draw aside the curtain which he thought was covering Naresh' painting; so that Arbindo might be able to see what its subject was. But the painting of Naresh was the curtain itself! Arbindo had to admit that his rival had won the contest. It is true that Arbindo had been able to deceive birds, but his rival had deceived an artist!

1. Naresh was a better painter because he could

- 1) deceive birds
- 2) deceive Arbindo
- 3) paint birds
- 4) deceive all painters

2. Arbindo thought that

- 1) he would be defeated by Naresh
- 2) the painting of Naresh was covered by a curtain
- 3) he was the best painter in the world
- 4) birds were the best subject for painting

3. Naresh had

- 1) a bunch of grapes behind the curtain
- 2) natural birds behind the curtain
- 3) painted nothing
- 4) nothing behind the curtain

4. Arbindo admitted that

- 1) Naresh was a better artist
- 2) grapes were not a good subject for painting
- 3) his paintings had not deceived birds
- 4) he could not see his rival's painting
